

Improv game 'This is not'...

This is one of my favourite improv games to play. It can be played with children or adults.

All you need is any object in your house and your wonderful imaginations. The invitation is to play the game with 2 or more people. The first person picks up an object like a pineapple, some slime or some crumpled paper. They then declare "this is not..." and then turns the object into something magical from their imagination. You then take turns in playing the game...

Let's begin....I will be using visual images but from then on use your imagination to decide what else the object could become.

This is not a crumpled piece of paper this is....

A bowl of noodles!

Some Rhinoceros dung!

A head of hair!

Have Fun!
